40,812 incidents of service have been recorded in the last fiscal year including individual peer support sessions, peer support and educational groups, socialization activities, art and computer lab utilization, and more.

The Wellness and Advocacy Center was scheduled to be defunded at the end of the last fiscal year; however, through incredible community advocacy, the center remained open thanks to temporary bridge funding from the Board of Supervisors.

The Center remained open throughout the Kincade Fire and mass evacuations to continue to support our community during that stressful time.

The center continued to grow throughout the year with us on track to exceed over 50,000 incidents of service and, in March, we were averaging 82 people per day at the center. On March 16th, we made the difficult decision to close our doors to drop-in services due to community transmission of COVID-19. The Center immediately switched over to providing warmline support services and slowly began adding back essential services including the showers and laundry services for homeless members.
